Notes from built site

- Keep the navigation bar the same you do not need to switch the current page to home on the navigation bar since the Formula Racing logo you made is clickable.
- Also have the elements on the page line up with the navigation bar, so for example, the left edge of the image on the formula challenge page lines up with the left edge of the Formula Racing Logo, it is pretty close right now, you just have to adjust the margin a little.
- Make the navigation bar text the same color grey as body text
- Check the image files for the home page because they are not showing up for me
- Hamburger-type menu for mobile site, you can just line up the elements on top of each other and that would be perfect, don't stress yourself trying to figure out how to get a hamburger menu that collapses into three lines.
- The text explaining the different formulas doesn't always line up in responsive.
- This is really little but for Formula E add a comma in the last sentence for the number because right now it is a space and when you make the page smaller the three zeros go to the next line and it looks a little funky.
- I know you haven't totally fleshed out all of the responsive things, but make sure to take a look at the Formula Car Challenge and Formula Mazda images on the bottom with how they are spaced and also make sure the images are exported for web in a high enough quality.
- I love how you put the image behind the text once the browser gets smaller, but don't have the same image become the background for every page, use the image from the same page become the background.
- On the history page, the image of the vintage car is amazing!!!! Maybe add one or two more just so when you scroll past the first image it isn't just text only on the right side of the page. Or you could have the next part of the text go under the image and that works too.
- Add a title on each page so I know what page I'm looking at, so like for the Formula Challenge page for example just have Formula Challenge on the top of the page in the same grey color text, bolded, but lined up with the left edge of the image.
- Change the image in formula challenge page to black and white. So its consistent with the other pages.
- The gallery looks great but 2 images are not showing up for me. The top right shows up in color when I hover, but nothing is there if I'm not hovering over it and there is nothing below the first photo.

This seems like a lot but they should be relatively simple changes

The overall website looks amazing and I am extremely happy with how it is coming along.
