Meeting notes

CD: Ceili Ecker
Designer: Edward Lim

-We talked about changing the font and styling of the heading- I thought it looked too MS Paint-y.
-I liked the overall "old sci-fi" concept, and thought that for the most part the design supported the concept.
-Ed showed me some of the animations he was working on building for the various pages, including one with color swatches you hover over the display the color's hex code or pantone number on the "real colors" page.
-We talked about making the page at last semi-responsive, by changing the way the background is displayed. Right now it shrinks and moves around when you change the browser width.
