

Keven and I discussed the idea of the site being more of a children's book in style. We agreed that as far as images go, they will give a feel of the children's book while still maintaining the seriousness of the topic.