Project Title: Fearsome Critters Website

I don't have THAT much content, so I'd link to probably just do a single page. As far as the list of creatures goes, I'd like to organize that into three inline columns, so that the content doesn't just go on forever, but that it is still organized in a meaningful way. Maybe a clickable dropdown menu of links to places on the page, something that looks like this:

- Home Page/Introduction – In early lumberjack folklore, fearsome critters were mythical beasts that were said to inhabit the frontier wilderness of North America.
- Origins
- Attributes
- A List of Known Fearsome Critters
- Sources – this pages will list sources from the article as well as image sources. There are also books and that are good for further reading and stories and first hand accounts, ect.
