Project Title: Stranger Things microsite

I am planning on building my site with three different content pages and one page for the citations and bibliography. The content will be organized as tabs. I am also planning on finding imagery from elsewhere to show the individual characters. I also want to play with the idea of the "upside down" which is only visible to some and maybe have one or two things only become visible if you hover over them.

Intro Page: includes plot and a list of characters and actors as well as some other basic information (genre etc)
Second Page: includes list of episodes that have been released and those that will be released
Third Page: production and release information
