Project Title: Cosmic Latte

I plan on building the site with a click-through intro page that either shows the cosmic latte color blanketing the entire screen and invites the user to enter the site in some manner or shows the same thing with the addition of an illustrated representation of “cosmic latte.” Following this I’ll have a regular scroll through single page site that will include:

1. The definition
2. Method of discovery
3. Background on researchers
4. Naming of the color
5. Sources

(I’m not sure that this topic has enough meat to make up a whole site? I think I could make it work but choosing something else might be fruitful.)
