

Designer: Rose Suna

Creative Director: Klara Koblyinski

I met with Klara to discuss what she wanted for the website. We talked about how she wanted a clean, modern crisp look. Since they are fashion photographers we both thought it would be good to have them have a magazine feel. I am going to look for typefaces that are similar to those in magazines.

We talked about the look for each page. There should be a grid that they all follow. The homepage and the portfolio page will break that grid. For the home page we discussed doing an image for almost the whole page. We both felt that their website, although good, had a little too much white space. So I will adapt some of that but have less whitespace.

The pages will be: Home Page and intro, early life and education, New York Career, portfolio and sources.